Languages: From English to French

Size of Job: 658 words

Job Description

We are a group of researchers in the Computer Science Department at Stanford University working on translation interfaces. This job asks you to translate 658 words from English to French. You should translate the sentences as quickly and as accurately as you can. While you work, our website will record your keystrokes and mouse actions. No other information will be recorded, except for some generic survey data. We will study the method that you and other translators like you used to translate sentences.

We invite your bids on this job.

TERMS:

Once you start a translation, you may pause for no longer than 3 minutes during the session. If you pause for longer than 3 minutes, then your current translation will be discarded. Loading... Each sentence that you exceed the "idle timer," we will deduct that many words from the final price that you are paid.

The job will be completed on a website. The website includes a tutorial that will quickly orient you with the interface and the job. Then the website will guide you through the following tasks:

Tutorial (less than 5 minutes)
Translation Job #1 (about 320 words)
Break (untimed)
Translation Job #2 (about 320 words)

When creating your translation, you are not allowed to use:

- *Machine translation systems (for example, Google Translate, Language Weaver)
- *Browser plugins or extensions

You may use dictionaries, either online (for example, wordreference.com) or offline.

We are seeking translators with high English-French bilingual proficiency. Feel free to contact us for more information.

We hope that you will join us!
